Dr. Allatesha Cain is a third grade teacher at Martin Luther King Elementary School in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. She is a teacher by trade with a Bachelor's Degree in Elementary Education and a Master's Degree in Elementary Technology. She is also a National Board Certified Teacher. With a passion for education and technology, Dr. Cain decided to combine her love for both fields by earning a Doctor of Education Degree in Instructional Technology and Distance Education. After the sudden school closings due to Covid-19, Dr. Cain started the Facebook group, Bitmoji Craze for Educators, which provides support to educators from around the globe to create vibrant and interactive virtual classrooms. Dr. Cain currently lives in Hoover, Alabama with her husband, children, and a fur baby.

Bitmoji Craze for Educators

Join the creator of the Bitmoji Craze for Educators Facebook group to learn the how and why behind this growing phenomenon. Creating instructional resources that stretch the boundaries of slides has inspired educators all over the world to design virtual learning spaces that engage students and connect to the physical classroom. Hear stories of the impact on the 100,000+ educators from around the world who joined Dr. Cain's group to create a supportive, collaborative group to share the workload and support each other during challenging educational times.
